The American-European Express Forwarding, Commission, and Banking Agency,

For all parts of the United States, Great Britain, Canada, California, and British Columbia.

(ESTABLISHED IN 1849.)

The AMERICAN-EUROPEAN EXPRESS has special arrangements with the various lines of transatlantic steamers for the conveyance of Parcels, Merchandise, Jewelry, Personal Effects, &c., &c., between Europe and America; and being the oldest of the transatlantic Expresses, and long known for the regularity and promptitude of its transactions, is now recognized as the leading and legitimate Express Conveyance between the two Continents.

Besides its own offices and branches, this Express is connected with and supported by the

"Adams," "American," "United States," and other great inland Expresses of America;

"The London and North Western Railway Company,"

"The Continental Daily Parcels Express," and

"Wheatley's Oriental and Australian Agency."

The A. E. EXPRESS also undertakes the collection of bills, drafts, invoices, &c., and commissions of a general nature appertaining to the Express business.
